Transition Coal.

This rare and valuable Coal is a variety not quite changed into an anthracite, and it has only been discovered (in large quantities) at three places upon our globe, viz: at South Wales, Great Britain; at Donetz, in Russia, mear the Black See; and at Dauphin and Lebanon counties, pennsylvania. In the London market this coal commands the highest price. It is now mined upon the large estate (43,000 acress) of the Dauphin and Susquehanna Coal Company, situated in Pennsylvania, and it is nearer to the cities of Baltimore and Washington than the coal of any other region. For easy ignition, durability of fire, complete combustion, easy adaptation to the temperature of the weather, and its great power in generating heat, it is the user coal in the world. It has the inflammability of the bituminous coal, with the cleanliness of the anthracite, and a greater durability than either. It burns without making any soot or visible smoke, and the combustion is so complete that it retains the fire until all the coal is consumed. Not so with the anthracites, especially the hard and heavy kinds. They do not burn up, and hence the common troublesome practice of sifting their ashes to obtain more fuel. In burning the Transition Coal there is no words, for the small coals made by handling, burn as well as ordinary coal. All should be hurned together. If screened at all the dust only should be taken out.

A very erroneous impression exists with many persons

birned together. If screened at all the dust only should be taken out.

A very erroneous impression exists with many persons that the heaviest coals are the most economical for ordinary purposes. This might be the case if coals were sold by measurement, but never when they are sold by wroner. In Taylor's valuable work, (Statistics of Coal,) the details are given to show that 31 pounds of a free-burning red ash yielded more heat to a room in 15 hours, than 37 pounds of a heavy white sah coal, making the red sah, at $5 50, to be more economical than the white sah at $4 61 per ton. Any person accustomed to use these heavy coals will be astonished at the saving which can be made in burning the lighter kinds, when tested by the veright and burnt in a suitable manner.

er kinds, when tested by the weight and burnt in a suitable manner.

An apprehension exists with some that the free-burning coals have a tendency to clinker. Now, as a general rule, no coal will clinker unless a greater draught be applied to it than the coal naturally requires. No one would think of applying a bellows constantly to a fire made of seasoned hickory or oak wood, and it would be equally as absurd to apply a blast constantly to a free-burning coal. But the heavy white ash anthracties cannot be burna without a powerful draft, and without using a larger quantity of coal than the temperature of the weather sometimes requires. Various patterns of stoves, furnaces, cooking ranges, &c., are invented annually to conquer this difficulty, but it has nover been done with complete success. In every contrivance, however, which has been invented to burn coal, the transition variety will make a beautiful fire, and no complaint will ever be made to a manufacturer or seller of grates or stoves when this coal is used. The draft alone is to be regulated by a damper. In introducing this new coal for the first time, prepared as it now is by steam power machinery for domestic use, it may give greater confidence to the buyer to say that the celebrated free-burning red sait veins in the Peach Orchard district, near Pottsville, are a continuation of the Bauphin veins, and they approach the nearest in value to the Transition coal.

Shipments of the Transition coal have already been made

NESS. By Dr. Kitto.

"This is a work of great interest, from one of the most learned and accomplished writers of the age, revealing the mysteries of the world in which those live whe have been deprived of the sense of sight or hearing. Ever since his boyhood, for more than thirty years, Dr. Kitto has passed a life of great activity as a scholar, in a state of the most intense deafness to which any living creature can be subjected. His account of himself, and of his discriminating remarks on the condition of the blind, (James Mitchell, Laura Bridgeman, and others,) are replete with profound thought on the interesting phenomenon presented in the progress of their mental training."—Christian Observer.

Designed to be a game piness in this life, and to Glory in the life which is to come. By Rev. Daniel Wise, A. M.

This work has been received with very great favor whereever it is known. The editor of the Northern Christian Advocate says: "We had heard good things of this work, and on reading it, most cheerfully add our testimony to its merits. It is not adventurous in its flight—nims at no terra incognito; but most gently and assiduously cultivates ground already known. Its sage counsels, enlivened with illustrations, are worth of a place in every lady's mind. The style is not ornate—it is better—flowing like the limpid, transparent brook over its pebbly bed, diffusing health and pleasure wherever it goes. The work is not wanting in nerve and originality; it is sufficiently removed from that cless of jajune and forceless compilations sensored from preceding authors, and glued together by the mere book-maker. For the objects had in view, it is one of the best works we have ever seen.
